

Issued by Park Square Executive Search

Cell Signaling Technology Appoints Kazuyuki Kiyota as Representative Director and President, Cell Signaling Technology Japan, K.K.

Cell Signaling Technology has appointed Kazuyuki Kiyota as Representative Director and President, Cell Signaling Technology Japan, K.K. Kiyota joins the company from Nippon Becton Dickinson Co., Ltd. where he served as Business Director, BD Biosciences.

From 2004-2009, Kiyota served in various roles at Applied Biosystems; he most recently served as General Manager and President, Japan. Applied Biosystems was acquired and became Life Technologies. From 2009-2010, Kiyota served at Life Technologies Japan, Ltd. as Chairman, General Manager, and President. His earlier career included positions at Hilti Japan, Ltd.; Reuters Japan, Ltd.; and OCEANAUTES, Inc.

About Cell Signaling Technology (CST)

Cell Signaling Technology (CST) is a private, family-owned company, founded by scientists and dedicated to providing high quality research tools to the biomedical research community. Our employees operate worldwide from our U.S. headquarters in Massachusetts, and our offices in the Netherlands, China, and Japan.